NOTICE TO MILLMEN.

A FREE LEASE of an eligible location for a SAW MILL on the Androscoggin River, near the village of Gorham, N. H., and within forty rods of the Grand Trunk Railway, is now offered to a practical Millman who will build a Mill and agree to run it for a term of years. This is an excellent opportunity. The supply of Spruce and Hemlock on the Androscoggin is well known to be almost unlimited, and there is a large quantity of rock maple and other hard woods for WINTER SAWING within a short distance of this mill site.

The owners propose to build a dam upon the premises early next summer.

C. A. BOUTELLE, EDITOR.

In issuing the Forty-fifth annual Prospectus of these standard Newspapers, the Proprietors confidently appeal to the record of almost half a century as affording the best promise of the future, while they will continue to spare no effort in maintaining and advancing their high character as

The Leading Journals of Eastern Maine,

And with facilities at our command we hope to make our journals still more interesting during the coming year.

Our connection with the Associated Press, from which we receive all the dispatches by night and day, enables us to present in each issue

The Latest Telegraphic News from All Parts of the World.

In addition we shall be served by Special Correspondents at important points, and shall furnish

Full Reports of Local, Domestic and Foreign News,
Proceedings of Congress,
Of State Legislature,
Financial and Commercial,
Home Produce Markets,
Editorial Articles, Agricultural News,
Manufacturing Intelligence,
Selected Stories,
Choice Poetry,
Entertaining Miscellany,

And all the important and interesting features which make up a

First Class Family Newspaper.

In politics the papers will continue to advocate and uphold the Principles of the Republican Party, while claiming to be independent, in the highest and best sense of the word. Fearless and outspoken in the treatment of all public questions and firmly maintaining what they believe to be right, they will avoid intolerance and make their appeals to the understanding rather than to prejudice. The year about to open will be fruitful of unusually important political events bearing upon the welfare of our country, and it will be our aim to afford our readers the earliest and most reliable information and to favor only such measures and policy as will best protect the rights and promote the welfare of all the people.

HOME INTERESTS,

as affected by the development of the resources of Maine, will receive special attention and whatever is calculated to stimulate or benefit

AGRICULTURE AND MANUFACTURES

in the State will be heartily encouraged. We rigidly exclude from our columns everything of an immoral tendency, avoid sensational matter and seek to make a thoroughly reliable paper which will be sure of A Welcome in Every Family Circle.

To advertisers our columns open one of the best fields in New England, our circulation being the largest of any paper in this section, among the best classes of the people, and as our Daily issue affords the principal medium of communication with a large and constantly increasing number of readers throughout Central and Eastern Maine.

The Only Morning Daily East of the Kennebec,

OUR WEEKLY

is also the largest and best Weekly Newspaper in the State. Every number accompanied by a two-page Supplement, making a paper of FORTY EIGHT columns, or one-half larger than any other Weekly. It is a standard publication, with large and constantly increasing circulation among the most intelligent and thrifty of the population of Eastern Maine, and the small space devoted to advertising is eagerly sought by the best class of patrons.

NOW IS THE TIME TO SUBSCRIBE FOR 1878.

TERMS—Invariably in Advance:

Daily—$8 per annum; $4 for 6 mos.; $2 for 3 mos.
Weekly—$2 per annum; $1 for 6 mos.; 50c. 3 mos.

The new postal law compelling prepayment of postage, imposes the burden on the publishers, but we make no advance upon our established subscription price, and will send the paper making a saving of $1.20 per annum for each of our Daily, and 20 cents per annum to each of our Weekly subscribers.

POSTAGE FREE,

CLUBBING WITH MAGAZINES.

Subscribers will be furnished with either our Daily or Weekly paper and any of the favorite Periodicals or Magazines at their lowest Club rates.

In offering these advantageous terms we hope to be sustained by a liberal patronage.

IMPORTANT LETTER

From a Distinguished Physician.

No single disease has entailed more suffering or hastened the breaking up of the constitution than Catarrh. The sense of smell, of taste, of sight, of hearing, the human voice, the mind, one or more and sometimes all yield to its destructive influence. The poison it distributes throughout the system attacks every vital force, and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored because but little understood by most physicians, impotently assailed by quacks and charlatans, those suffering from it have little hope to be relieved of it this side of the grave. It is time, then, that the popular treatment of this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all passed into hands at once competent and trustworthy. The new and hitherto untried method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his RADICAL CURE has won my hearty approval. I believe it likely to succeed where all the usual remedies fail, because it strikes at the root of the disease, viz., the acidified blood, while it heals the ulcerated membrane by direct application to the nasal passages. Its action is based on certain fixed rules, and unless the vital forces are too far exhausted, must, in the great majority of cases, effect a cure.

GEO. BEARD, M. D.
NOBSCOTT BLOCK, SO. FRAMINGHAM, Oct. 1, 1871.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE

MAY safely claim to be one of the few popular remedies receiving the approval of medical gentlemen, who, in private, not only freely recommend it but use it in their families in preference to any of the preparations usually prescribed by physicians.

"You are aware," said a distinguished city physician, "that my obligations to the Mass. Medical Society are such that I cannot publicly recommend or prescribe the Radical Cure, but since I received so much relief from the use of it myself, after a thorough trial of the usual remedies, I have privately advised its use, and presume I have sent to your store no less than one hundred of my patients for it."

UNIVERSAL SATISFACTION.

GENTLEMEN,—We have sold SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE for nearly one year, and can say candidly that we never sold a similar preparation that gave such universal satisfaction. We have to learn the first complaint yet.

We are not in the habit of recommending patent medicines, but your preparation meets the wants of thousands, and we think those afflicted should be convinced of its great merit so that all the suffering will be relieved. We have been in the drug business for the past twelve years constantly, and sold everything for Catarrh, but yours leads all the rest. If you see proper you can use this letter or any part of it that you wish.

Very truly yours,
S. D. BALDWIN & CO.,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in Drugs, Books and Stationery, Washington, Ind., Feb. 23, 1876.

Each package contains Dr. Sanford's Improved Inhaling Tube, and full directions for use in all cases. Price, $1.00. For sale by all wholesale and retail Druggists and dealers throughout the United States and Canadas. WEEKS & POTTER, General Agents and Wholesale Druggists, Boston, Mass.

COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTER

An Electro-Galvanic Battery combined with a highly Medicated Strengthening Plaster, forming the best Plaster for pains and aches in the World of Medicine.

ELECTRICITY

As a grand curative and restorative agent is not equalled by any element or medicine in the history of the healing art. Unless the vital spark has fled the body, restoration by means of electricity is possible. It is the last resort of all physicians and surgeons, and has rescued thousands, apparently dead, from an untimely grave, when no other human agency could have succeeded. This is the leading curative element in this Plaster.

BALSAM AND PINE.

The healing properties of our own fragrant balsam and pine, in the form of extracts, are too well known to require description. Their cooling, soothing, healing and strengthening properties are known to thousands. When combined with electricity as in this Plaster, important discoveries in medicine, they at once enhance their strengthening properties are increased tenfold. In this respect the Plaster is the best in use with or without electricity.

TWO IN ONE.

Thus we combined we have two grand medical agents in one, each of which performs its function and unitedly produce more cures than any liniment, lotion, wash, or plaster ever before compounded in the history of medicine. Try one. Price, 25 cents.

Sold by all Wholesale and Retail Druggists throughout the United States and Canadas, and by WEEKS & POTTER, Proprietors, Boston, Mass.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse.

CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
late Commissioner of Patents."

BOSTON, October 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, ESQ.—Dear Sir: you procured for me, in 1840, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you. Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

The Auburn jail workshop now employs 10 men, who earn the county about $100 a month profit in the production monthly of four hundred cases of inner soles. The county pays $2.75 for board per week. The workshop system is of great benefit to the prisoners, makes them more manageable, less vicious and teaches habits of industry.

The Lewiston Water Board advertise for proposals for supplying 3000 tons weight of iron pipe, about 11 miles in extent. The old saw mill is soon to be demolished, and its site used as a pumping station for Lewiston water works. The reservoir on Mitchell Hill, 1 8-10 miles from the dam, will cost $40,000 to $50,000, will contain 10,000,000 gallons of water, a ten days' supply for the city. The reservoir embankment will be 55 feet thick at base and 12 feet thick at summit. The water within will be 15 feet deep.

Thirty Methodist clergymen were present at the golden wedding of Rev. Mr. Sanderson in Auburn, Thursday evening.

The Androscoggin Poultry Association has been invited to unite with the State Association in holding the next annual show.

The second annual exhibition of the Androscoggin Poultry Association closed Friday evening at City Hall. All who were present were highly pleased with the exhibition, which was a success in all the particulars which the officers of the society could make it.

There are many evidences that the poor of Lewiston and Auburn are now very badly pinched for food and fuel. One Auburn family, formerly in good circumstances, has been reduced to want by illness and inability of the head of the family to obtain work.

Aroostook.

There are two sisters in Houlton named Lucy, one of them is 105 years of age, the other 102.

Cumberland.

John F. Haley, of Sebago, recently met with a painful accident. While at work in his blacksmith shop, he fell in a fit upon the forge and a red-hot axe which he was forging, burning his face considerably, and his left hand shockingly, even to the bones of the fingers. It is feared he will never fully regain the use of his hand.

Enoch Wentworth, while at work in the woods in Harrison, cutting oak, a limb fell and struck him on the head, making a bad gash and otherwise injuring him.

Mr. Robert A. Walker, of Portland, has just completed a very handsome checker-board. It is composed of 2550 pieces of wood of eight different kinds, and is put together with the nicest skill. Every other square is composed of 64 pieces, and the outer border is artistically fashioned.

Hancock.

W. L. Parker, of Dedham, has sold out the grist mill to parties from Orrington, who are putting it in order for first-class work.

Mrs. Olive Turner died in Dedham, the 17th ult. She was born in Penobscot, Me., Sept. 1780, and was consequently 97 years 3 months old. Mrs. T. lived to be over 90 years before she knew what it was to take any kind of medicine, and she was often heard to remark that she was not afraid of taking cold.

Kennebec.

About the usual business at the granite yards and quarries in Hallowell is in progress at the present time, with perhaps a larger number of cutters in proportion, than at any time during the season. Another spring will witness an extension of operations that will be gratifying to those who depend upon the Hallowell Granite Company for active and remunerative employment.

Oxford.

Mr. Robert Merrill, a citizen past middle life, living near Swift's Corner, Norway, cut his throat with a razor on Thursday morning. He lived some two or three hours after he was found.

Pascoll Barrell and wife of Hartford, over 80 years of age, were both stricken with paralysis on the same day, last week. Mr. Barrell remains unconscious, but Mrs. Barrell is rallying.

Sagadahoc.

The Bath Times learns that the directors of the Eastern Steamboat Company have determined to put on a third boat at Boothbay Harbor to run there the coming summer in connection with their boats from Bath. This will supply a want long felt for regular steam communication with the eastern part of Boothbay, and render much more desirable, as summer resorts, the new settlements at Ocean Point, Squirrel Island, Pig Cove Island and other delightful spots in the vicinity of the Harbor.

George M. Reed's clothing store on Centre street, Bath, was entered by a burglar or burglars on Tuesday night. Entrance was effected through the rear window. No goods were taken, but the cash drawer was relieved of about twenty dollars in silver. Tracks of a No. 8 pair of boots were discovered in the snow.

Washington.

Mr. Frank Hanscom, of East Machias, lost a pair of valuable horses near the narrows, connecting lower Gardner's Lake with the Second Lake. He was returning to his camp from taking a load of logs to a saw-mill at the outlet of the Lake, when both horses suddenly dropped through the ice, dragging Mr. Hanscom into the Lake with them. He was in the water some time before he succeeded in getting out on the ice. It was after dark, and with all the efforts of Mr. H. to extricate the horses from their harnesses and sleds, he failed to succeed, and both horses drowned. Mr. H. was alone at the time.

Frozen herring have been very plentiful at Eastport for a fortnight past. The late warm weather is unfavorable.

The ice left the Machias river the [illegible] day of January during a warm rain. The river will undoubtedly close up again.

Mr. Isaac Bedell, of Machias, who has charge of one of P. S. J. Talbot & Co.'s logging teams, came very near losing his horses on Monday last, while driving down a steep hill in the main logging road. The sled pole broke, and Mr. Bedell being seated on his load of logs, had no alternative but to steer his horses as best he could, and let them run till they reached level footing. The escape from death was providential.

WHAT FIVE SHEEP WILL DO.

Five sheep will enrich one acre of old worn out mowing land in three years, so that it will produce one and one-half tons of hay per year, for several years, by a light sprinkle of seed each year, sown in the early spring.

Five sheep will produce manure in winter to the value of ten dollars, by giving them suitable bedding.

Five sheep will get their living through summer on one acre of ground, the pasturing of same would be three dollars.

Five sheep will raise five lambs, worth fifteen dollars.

Five sheep will shear twenty-five pounds of wool, worth six dollars.

Now, let us see how the account stands—ground improved by the sheep running one year,

	$15 00
Value of manure in winter,	10 00
Five lambs,	15 00
Wool,	6 00
Sheep getting their living on the land,	3 00
	$49 00

The above being credited to the sheep, let us see what it costs to keep five sheep through the winter.

Five sheep will eat one and one half tons of hay which costs	$18 00
Interest on flock,	5 00
Care of sheep	10 00
	$33 00

Deducting this from the first mentioned figures, we have a profit of $16 00 on five sheep, for one year.

Now make it three years, and we have a credit of	$147 00
And debit of	99 00
Leaving as three years' profit	$48 00

Now, if the above is correct, we have a profit of $48 00, and a grass field that will cut from one to two tons of hay for several years, and without the usual cost of ploughing and the application of manure of some kinds, which is no small item. It may be found best, in some instances, to plough and seed, that depends somewhat upon the condition of the sod—but I am now speaking of land with a firm sod but bound out and run out, as we term it, and producing but a small quantity of hay.

You will see by my statement, that I have valued the manure from sheep one-third more in summer than in winter. From my own experience and observation, I am fully satisfied that sheep are of very great value on improved land, and they should always be kept on the ploughing land and ahead of the scythe.—N. E. Farmer.

FORCING HENS TO LAY.—To have plentiful laying in winter is principally desirable on account of the great price obtainable for the eggs in the market. With an equal price the year round it would not be worth while to take special means for producing eggs in winter. If anatomical observation be made, we find a cluster of eggs or partly formed eggs. These little yolks may put on their whites and also their protecting shell, in cold weather, only a forcing or a stimulating process can compel this. It comports well with that saying which we hear in every schoolyard, and in every street, from the mouth of every Yankee urchin, "Hurry up! Hurry up!" If we hurry up a horse in the beginning of the journey, he will lag at the latter part. He has just about so much "go" in him and if we get a large share at the beginning there will be less at the end. The case is somewhat similar with the fowls. The forcing process in winter necessitates a rest in spring or summer.

In regard to the fowls that are to be used as breeders, it may be bad policy to cram them, by egg-producing food, to lay in winter. The system should be in full vitality and healthfulness when the breeding hen commences business. But the price of fresh eggs in winter is a very strong inducement to use all means possible to get the fowls to lay at that season. They may recuperate when warm weather comes and eggs are low. Only a limited number of eggs may be obtained from each hen in a year. Not half the days in the year—generally not over one-third—are laying days. The boys who were sent to gather eggs found only a few, but reported on their return "A lot of the hens were standing around doing nothing." Sometimes the poultry-keeper is impatient at seeing his fowls persistently refuse to lay for weeks, and months even, under the best of care and feeding, when, after all, they are only gathering a fund of reserved force, for a grand burst of prolificness by and by. Then the whole flock take up the habit of laying, and there is cackling all times in the day, the cocks making themselves hoarse with the answering refrain. Those farmers who keep a tree full of fowls will not sell an egg in all the cold winter. But when the voice of the turtle is heard in our land, the tree full of fowls will go about, eggs will be plenty in market and low in price.—Poultry World.

THE SCIENCE OF ADVERTISING.—Advertising wagons, dodgers, handbills and circulars are perhaps well enough in their way. They may create a momentary impression upon some minds. We do not discourage this method of advertising, any more than we would object to putting up a painted sign to indicate a particular business. But the experience of a century or more, as also the common judgment of enlightened men, point unerringly to the columns of the largely circulated and popular newspapers as the place wherein advertisements are read and thought over, and make persuasive impressions upon the popular mind. The kaleidoscope give one a hasty and flashing view of pictures sometimes beautiful, but the views are evanescent, and forgotten as they vanish. The painting that exhibits something grand in nature or impressive in real life grows upon memory, and its influence is always felt and cherished. There is the element of persuasion here that gives it perpetual and increasing value. The showy makeshifts of advertising, in the matter of effects, are no more to be compared to the columns of the popular and well-read newspaper, as a power to attract purchasers and induce trade, than are the showy picture flashes of the kaleidoscope, with the great and valued work of the master painter.—Albany Express.

VICTORY OR DEATH.—The following singular courtship of a Prairie Grove gallant is an illustration that "faint heart never won fair lady." He proposed, but was gently refused. He went a second and a third time with the same result. But at length he rode over one evening and told her that he would neither eat, sleep nor speak until she consented to become his bride. She invited him in to dinner; he shook his head. She talked on; he merely looked dejected. Then she requested him to take supper; a negative shake of the head was the only reply. She played, sang and chatted on till bed time, when a servant showed him a room; a negative shake. She tripped away to her chamber; he sat determinedly still. About 12 o'clock she came back and said: "I don't wish to cause the death of a good citizen, so I will marry you." The released one arose, and with much eagerness said: "My dear, have you any cold victuals on hand?"

THE SMALL BOY'S VIEWS.—Woodchucks is a very curious animal. It is made of hair and eyes and has two front teeth, and can see a man with a gun when the eyes are shut and bolted. I have seen a dog shake a woodchuck till both were black in the face. A woodchuck can snivel up his nose and look as homely as I can without trying. They sit on one end and eat with the other. A woodchuck can get home faster than a gun shoots. He is round all over except his feet, which are black. When eaten they retain the flavor of their nests, and seem to have been cooked without being pared. A fat woodchuck, when eat properly, is no laughin' matter. They come under the head of "domestic animals," and there ain't no place like home when a dog goes for one of 'em.

Tonsorial artists have become so skillful that they now "bang hair" so close to the regular State prison cut that only an old convict can detect the cheat.

MAINE AND GEORGIA AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

We live fast in this country and of late especially the whirligig of politics has been revolving with marvellous speed and such eccentric motions that people have well nigh ceased to attempt to preserve connections between the past and present as each new phase of the betrayal of a great party suggests still more surprising inconsistencies and indignation in the future. Let us glance backward a moment upon events of the very recent past which have been crowded out of the public mind by the surprises of an abject surrender of the fruits of the last two victories of the battle-field and the ballot box.

A little more than a year ago a great Presidential contest was inaugurated by the choice of a Republican candidate at Cincinnati where the rivalries of the distinguished leaders of the party resulted in a combination on the seventh ballot which barely nominated one of the least known of the contestants who had up to that time received little more than a complimentary [illegible] vote. The result was accepted and [illegible] misgivings on the part of the [illegible] of the party [illegible] [illegible] the Republicans of the country rallied to the support of the designated standard bearer and after a struggle of [illegible] [illegible] triumphantly installed [illegible] R B Hayes in the Presidential office.

In this struggle the Democratic party relied [illegible] upon a solid South to be secured by [illegible] and all resorts [of] proscription and violence [illegible] the Republican party appealed for support to prevent Democratic triumph which meant a revival of the [illegible] of the Lost Cause [illegible] [illegible] white blood of patriots and the [illegible] victims of southern [illegible] The [illegible] was clearly defined and [illegible]

It devolved upon the Republicans of Maine to fight the opening battle of the campaign [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] The Great Republican [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] Convention [illegible] [illegible] constantly [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] this country [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] would have [illegible] [illegible] for himself [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the anxious [illegible] of friends he flung himself into the canvass with a vigor [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] knew no rest [illegible] [illegible] until Maine [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] victor [illegible] [illegible] In that contest another honored Republican leader one who had occupied the Vice Presidential chair [illegible] the first term of Abraham Lincoln [illegible] to Republican principles [illegible] [illegible] New England [illegible] [illegible] apostate [illegible] Hannibal Hamlin [illegible] [illegible] conspicuous and [illegible] speaking and [illegible] party counsels taking [illegible] of fatigue or personal discomfort until the victory was won. We think it will not be [illegible] to say that [illegible] the two distinguished statesmen who now represent Maine in the U S Senate [illegible] in this State rendered more constant [illegible] [illegible] service throughout the campaign which gave the first prestige of victory to the cause of Hayes and Wheeler than Hon [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] the victory were prompt [illegible] [illegible] triumph had hardly [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to come [illegible] [illegible] Ohio [illegible]

Let us look now at another State which took part in the Presidential contest—the State of Georgia. For a number of years there the Republicans had been Ku-Kluxed and bull-dozed [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Democratic majority [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Ku-Klux and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of the black [illegible] [illegible] Confederate [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of the Forty-fourth Congress. Having so little [illegible] [illegible] of Georgia Gordon [illegible] into South Carolina during the [illegible] [illegible] after the election [illegible] [illegible] of Wade Hampton's revolutionary rifle-clubs swaggeringly threatened a direct [illegible] [illegible] the U S army officers in command there and sent bombastic and insulting messages to the President of the United States.

Well the election [was] over and President Hayes inaugurated he announced a new policy to consist of conciliation and civil service reforms. The conciliation proved to be the surrender of all Republican rights to the Southern Democratic demands, and the civil service reform an auxiliary of conciliation by which all offices in the South should be controlled by Southern Democratic Congressmen, while in the North the commendation of Republican members should be deemed impertinent and fatal to an applicant. The President had said that he should permit no Congressional interference with the appointing power, and took early occasion to publicly snub Republicans to whom he was most indebted for his election, but while he was swinging around the circle on his famous tour in which he praised the rebels for "fighting for their convictions," he promised the Georgia Senators that he would remove the excellent Republican U S Marshal of that State, Major Smyth, to whom the only objection was that he was vigorous and faithful in enforcing the laws, and would appoint a Democrat whenever the two distinguished Senators from that Sovereign State could agree upon the man.

They finally agreed upon a Mr Huff, a prominent citizen of good standing and the request of Messrs Gordon Hill and Alex H Stephens was sufficient to secure the prompt and gushing assurance of the President that the appointment should be made. It seems that Mr Huff thought some Republican support might not injure him with a Republican Administration so he obtained letters from a number of leading Republicans who were satisfied with Huff if they could not have a man of their own party, and who wrote the President that he was a very conservative Democrat of good character and motives and they thought his appointment would tend to bring him in harmony with the Republican party and to strengthen it in the State. Gordon learned of these Republican indorsements and straightway telegraphed the President to withhold Huff's name until he could have an interview. Hastening to the White House he told the President he had learned that some Republicans were indorsing Huff that he wanted a Democrat for the place and no man who would strengthen the Republicans and requested that one Major Fitzsimmons a nephew of Wade Hampton and a thoroughly unreconstructed rebel be nominated for U S Marshal. The President obsequiously assented and Fitzsimmons, who repudiates the doctrine of the Constitutional Amendments which it will be his principal duty to enforce was confirmed as Marshal of Georgia by the solid Democratic vote of the Senate reinforced by Stanley Matthews Conover and Patterson. So much for Georgia.

Since that the matter of appointing the U S Marshal in Maine for a new term has come up and both Senators and the entire delegation urged the reappointment of Marshal Marble whose ability has been [illegible] [illegible] and whose official record is [illegible] exceptionable. The President who has just appointed a rebel Democrat for Marshal of Georgia at the dictation of Gordon Hill and Stephens turns toward Maine [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and James G Blaine the Senator who presented Hayes to a State which flung its twenty first conse[illegible] [illegible] Republican victory in the [illegible] behalf of Hayes and Wheeler that their recognition entitled to no respect [illegible] [illegible] appointments for Maine [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the Republican masses [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] his sycophantic praise of himself and [illegible] Eides

At the White House of to day it is better to have been a chief of the Ku-Klux than to have been a stirdy New England Republican, better to have been the second officer of [illegible] Confederate [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of Abraham Lincoln [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the Southern [illegible] and the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the most intrepid champion of Republican principles [illegible] [illegible] the Republicans of the country for President [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] whose presence was invoked wherever the battle was hottest and whose tour of the country in behalf of the Republican standard bearer was marked by a continuous popular ovation without a parallel in its spontaneity and enthusiasm.

There [illegible] [illegible] Democratic [illegible] [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] to the President who shows [illegible] discrimination in his treatment of Maine and Georgia. Perhaps this sort of thing is what all of us in the Republican ranks were laboring for through all those exciting and weary months of the [illegible] campaign but it looks very much like [illegible] [illegible] who has surrendered all [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to punish those who [illegible] most to invest him with the power. The spectacle does not have a very strong semblance of statesmanship or reform.

The Upright Piano

is from its small, compact form and handsome exterior, especially suited to the parlors of many houses where a Square Piano could not conveniently be placed. The volume of tone is fully equal to any Square Grand Pianos while the quality is of the most exquisite musical character. The durability of Upright Pianos and their capacity of standing in tune is unparalleled in the history of Piano-making. I have both UPRIGHT and SQUARE PIANOS of all grades and prices, including the unapproachable

Richardson's NEW METHOD

FOR THE PIANOFORTE

Price $3.25 By NATHAN RICHARDSON

250 000 copies sold. Sales have surpassed those of all other books combined. Be sure to order by the full title and do not accept instead of this, THE MODERN SCHOOL which is an older book by the same author. Mr Richardson's opinion of the merits of this first effort may be gathered from the following taken from the Preface to the NEW METHOD

Becoming at length satisfied of the truth of these criticisms (by many eminent composers and professors) and convinced that great improvements were obviously needed I determined if possible to remedy the defects. Profiting by the experience and advice of the best practical teachers, I commenced a thorough and critical examination of my first method and concluded that the only remedy would be to bring out a new work on an improved plan."

This new work substituted for the defective MODERN SCHOOL was Richardson's NEW METHOD FOR THE PIANOFORTE, which has been revised and re-revised until it is the most perfect of music books, is a great favorite with the profession, and is the only true "Richardson."

A [illegible] shooting affair which will [illegible] to prove fatal occurred in Wells Saturday night. Charles Pease and family [illegible] Hill two miles west of [illegible]. Some time early in the [illegible] a bullet was fired through the [illegible] part of the house which struck [illegible] aged five years. The [illegible] just over the lung. Dr Hall [illegible] extricated the ball with great [illegible]. The [illegible] is now in a critical [illegible] and is unlikely to recover. Who did the shooting and for what purpose is a mystery.

Fishermen's Perils

Further particulars have been received of the perilous voyage of three Wells fishermen who were out in dories during the [illegible] the other day as before reported. Mr Staples was drifted into the [illegible] frozen. Jedediah Moses Perkins [illegible] now accounted for [illegible] reaching Ogunquit while the latter after [illegible] Boon Island [illegible] is smashed to pieces on the reef [illegible] the Island [illegible] was [illegible].

SOUTH CAROLINA

Wade Hampton backs the Illicit Distillers

NEW YORK Jan 28 A despatch from [illegible] says Collector Brayton had an interview with Governor Hampton upon the subject of the enforcement of the Revenue laws in South Carolina. The Governor asserted that his people were law abiding but were angered at the bad character of the raids appointed to make arrests. The Collector asserted that his force was reputable and honest as the State [illegible] officers. During the interview no progress was made towards a better understanding between the Federal and State authorities. Subsequently Brayton wrote a letter to the Governor with the proposition that Hampton should nominate to the Collector the five men to act as special [illegible] for the suppression of illicit traffic in whiskey and tobacco in the disturbed region. Hampton has not yet replied.

One of M C Butler's Bond Speculations

A suit is begun in this city against [illegible] and others by F D Childs and H H Southern for accounting in regard to the [illegible] of several hundred thousand dollars worth of South Carolina bonds. It appears that a written agreement was made [illegible] M C Butler, now Senator from South Carolina and General Gary, by which both Butler and Gary, as members of the State convention at Columbia were to use their influence for the passage of a resolution which would have the effect of enhancing the value of the bonds of that State. The agreement is printed showing that Everett, Childs Palmer and Southern agreed to pay Gary and Butler ten per cent of the profits on half a million of South Carolina bonds, if such resolution passed, and both Gary and Butler signed it. Gary is now Chairman of the Finance Committee of the South Carolina Senate.

MATTHEWS' SILVER RESOLUTION

The House Passes it by a Vote of 187 to 79.

FORTY-FIFTH CONGRESS—Second Session.

WASHINGTON, Jan 28.

Senate

Mr Beck gave notice that he would to-morrow call up the resolution submitted by him last week declaring it inexpedient either to maintain or impose taxes at this time for the purpose of providing for the $37,196,045 01 asked for by the Secretary of the Treasury for the sinking fund. The House bill to remove obstructions from the Mississippi, Missouri, Arkansas and Red Rivers was taken and passed after a brief discussion. At the expiration of the morning hour the Senate resumed consideration of the unfinished business, it being the House bill to authorize free coinage of a standard silver dollar and to restore its legal tender character, and Mr Morrill spoke in opposition thereto.

House

At the expiration of the morning hour Mr Baker submitted an anti subsidy resolution and Mr. Luttrell moved to adjourn but withdrew the motion and it was renewed by Butler of Mass, but the House refused, yeas 24, nays 230 and the resolution was adopted, yeas 174, nays 85.

Mr Ewing moved to suspend the rules and take from the Speaker's table and pass the Senate concurrent resolution for the payment of United States bonds, principal and interest in gold, or silver, known as the Matthews silver resolution.

Mr Garfield moved to adjourn. He desired his colleague (Ewing) to set a time for debate on the resolution.

Mr. Butler of Mass.—We do not want debate.

Mr. Garfield—We have passed a bill on this subject without a word of debate. I do not propose to make any factious opposition to getting the sense of the House, but on a question so deeply affecting the public credit, reaching far beyond the mere technical legal question to which the resolution refers, we ought to have a fair discussion.

Mr Ewing—The bill which has passed the House is pending in the Senate. It may come back with amendments, when a debate on the subject will be had.

Mr Garfield—Do you want an amendment?

Mr Garfield subsequently withdrew his motion to adjourn and a vote was taken on passing the resolution which resulted yeas 187, nays 79.

The Vote in Detail

Yeas—Aiken, Aldrich, Atkins, Baker, [illegible], Banning, Bayne, Bell, Bicknell, Blackburn, Blount, Boone, Boyd, Bragg, Brentano, Brewer, Bridges, Bright, Brogdon, Browne, Buckner, Burchard, Burdick, Butler, Cabell, Cain, Caldwell, Ky., Caldwell of Tenn, Calkins, Candler, Cannon, Carlisle, Caswell, Chalmers, Clarke of Ky., Clark of Missouri, Clark, Iowa, Clymer, Cobb, Collins, Conger, Cox, Ohio, Cox, N Y, Crovens, Crittenden, Culberson, Cummings, Cutler, Davidson, Davis of N C, Deering, Dibrell, Dickey, Dunnell, Durham, Elam, Ellis, Errett, Evans of Indiana, Evins of S. Among the seventy-nine nays the names of Messrs Frye, Hale, Lindsey, Powers and Reed appear.

The House at 4 10 adjourned.

LOUISIANA

Major Burke Interviewed

NEW YORK Jan 28 Major Burke, in an interview yesterday at New Orleans defended President Hayes and the Southern Democratic Congressmen from the charges of party infidelity. He says nothing transpired in connection with the counting of the electoral vote which could in any way improperly compromise President Hayes or the Southern Democratic Congressmen. In answer to the charge that Northern Democrats and Southern Congressmen did not act in good faith with their party he said the people of Louisiana had expressed in favor of the Electoral bill. They regarded it as a means of letting Tilden in. They had been led to expect Tilden and the Democratic party North would claim their rights and if need be enforce them. Fulton and the Tilden managers sought Louisiana Congressmen and myself to urge the Nicholls Legislature and other people to work up a public sentiment in favor of the Electoral bill, under the belief that Tilden's rights were secured by it and he did so at their solicitation and upon their representations. Therefore Tilden's declaration on the evening of his departure for Europe that he had always disapproved the Electoral bill came with a bad grace.

At the caucus of February 8th we simply desired to know if the party had any comprehensive plan or policy looking to Tilden's inauguration, if not and they should determine to acquiesce in the decision of the commission then we insisted that the party should commit the Republicans to the withdrawal of troops in Louisiana and South Carolina before yielding. Instead of making the conditions or any effort to save Louisiana or South Carolina, the caucus agreed to acquiesce in the decision of the Electoral Commission and practically abandoned Louisiana and South Carolina. Regarding the counting of the vote, he said the Tilden managers in Washington had schemes for defeating the count in the Senate and for holding a new election under Conkling, but the party had never authorized them. I know positively that Senator Conkling had a speech all prepared in favor of throwing out the vote of Louisiana in which event he was to have been elected President of the Senate and would have become President of the United States, pending the new election which would have taken place a year after ward. Tilden's friends were satisfied with this arrangement because they thought that with his wounds fresh bleeding he would have no trouble in securing the Democratic nomination and Senator Conkling doubtless thought that with the control of the patronage he would easily shelve Hayes and become the Republican candidate. The cause which prevented an attempt at carrying out this programme was the distrust felt by Conkling's adherents on the Republican side by the carpet-bag Senators from the Southern States. They were all ready enough to slaughter Hayes because they had become alarmed at some of his utterances and at Grant's declaration, but it was feared that instead of supporting Conkling they might vote for Morton, as they probably would have done. Burke further said he never had an agreement signed by Stanley Matthews, Chas. Foster or anybody else and leading Southerners know that Matthews and Foster were unjustly assailed.

The Returning Board—A Jury Packed to Convict Them.

A special from New Orleans says the excitement in the Returning Board cases is somewhat abated. At an interview with Anderson, Kenner and Cassanove in the parish prison Anderson stated the reason they had remained in the Custom House was to gain time. On the present jury in the Superior Court there is not a single colored man. The jury is drawn to convict them. He intimated pretty bitterly that the effect of their treatment by the Administration might lead to something unexpected though he refused to say what. In conversation with the prison officials however, the tree have expressed themselves to the effect that if they are deserted by those they placed in power they will make disclosures exceedingly unpleasant. The two colored men are very downhearted. They say there is no hope for them with a packed jury and every one arrayed against them. Anderson though dispirited at times grows fierce and bitter. ~~Search has been made~~ everywhere for Wells but without effect. It is believed he started Saturday for Washington and that when there he will go to the President and urge their desperate condition and show him that unless he does something they will be lost. If he refuses then a disclosure will be made of fraud on condition the prosecution shall be stopped.

It is said intimations have been given from certain leading Democrats that if the Returning Board would show Hayes' election to be a fraud their prosecution will cease. It is certain that the Returning Board members are in their last straits and are rapidly becoming desperate.—Leading Republicans say they can see no way in which Hayes could help the Board, except by open violation of laws which he dare not do and therefore the chances are his exposure is now near at hand.

A Washington despatch says Attorney General Devens says that by the last accounts received by him everything in New Orleans was quiet and no probability existed of any trouble. The directions he gave were that the process of the Courts should be recognized and obeyed. So far as related to the action of the federal authorities he did not think the U S Custom House or any other government building should be used as an asylum or a place of refuge against the service of a criminal process issued by proper authority of the courts.

PARLIAMENTARY DEBATE THURSDAY

Gladstone Opposes a Supplementary Estimate

NEW YORK, Jan 28 A London special says Marquis of Hartington leader of the Liberals in Commons will not oppose supplementary estimates to be asked for by the Government. Mr Gladstone will, however oppose any estimate asked for.

London Newspaper Reports.

LONDON Jan 28 The Times authoritatively denies that a part of the Russian army will traverse the country to Constantinople and embark there for home. It is stated the Russian demands will encounter serious opposition from England and Austria, the latter is particularly opposed to retrocession of Bessarabia to Russia and to any conditions doing more than to cripple Turkey.

The News editorially says the Cabinet Council, Sunday determined to persist with the demand for supplementary vote.

The summoning of the Cabinet Council Sunday is regarded in some quarters as an indication of the political atmosphere not clearing.

The latest authentic advices from Constantinople do not confirm the statement that the Porte received a telegram to the effect that the Turkish delegates and Grand Duke Nicholas would reach Adrianople Saturday. Up to 9 o'clock last night the Porte had no advices of the conclusion of an armistice, though orders were telegraphed to the Turkish Plenipotentiaries Friday to accept the preliminaries of peace. The delay causes apprehension that an armistice may be accompanied by onerous conditions.

The Porte's 'Peculiar Position'—The Effect of an Armistice

The Porte is now in the peculiar position of having accepted the terms of peace without knowing on what conditions an armistice will be granted. An armistice properly handled must make the Russians more than ever master of the situation. They are at liberty to fix not only the line of demarcation, but the time during which they may remain in possession of the territory occupied. This will leave them time to settle details according to their own view, which in peace preliminaries have given place to general principle. The in the latter in regard to Bulgaria the future limits of the province do not appear to have been specified, nor the degree to which autonomy of Bulgaria or reforms in Bosnia or Herzegovina are to extend. The same seems to be the case with regard to an increase of territory for Montenegro. The cession of Roumania and Bessarabia is not mentioned and the question of Dardanelles is reserved nor is anything said about the march into or through Constantinople.

Pushing Military Operations

Meantime the Russians, Servians, Roumanians and Montenegrins are pushing military operations with great vigor about Widdin, Prisrend, Lake Scutari and Silistria and in the Maritza valley east of Adrianople. From all these points war bulletins are received showing no abatement of the offensive by the allies. Suleiman Pasha's army continues to embark. Six English transports are ordered to Kavala to assist in the operation. Up to Saturday evening Safvet Pasha, acting Foreign Minister during the absence on the Peace Mission of Server Pasha, persisted in his refusal to inform Layard the British Ambassador, of the terms of peace showing that the Porte has been pledged by Russia to keep them secret, though the St Petersburg semi official press declares that withholding the terms was a Turkish trick to force English action. This is improbable because the Russians could always have defeated such a move by communication of the conditions themselves.

The Supplementary Bill Debate

LONDON, Jan. 28 Viscount Sandon, member of Parliament for Liverpool will succeed Carnarvon as Secretary of State for the Colonial Department. In the Commons this afternoon Sir Stafford Northcote accepted the suggestion of the Marquis of Hartington leader of the Liberals that after Stafford's statement when the supplementary bill is moved, the debate should be adjourned until to-morrow. This was because the time of the House is already otherwise appropriated to orders of the day.

Passing the Dardanelles Under Protest.

LONDON, Jan 28 A special to the Times from Pera says the Porte persisted in the determination not to permit the British fleet to enter the Dardanelles except as an ally of Turkey. England informed the Porte that the fleet must enter without permission. The Porte entered a formal protest which was forwarded to the Plenipotentiaries at the Russian headquarters, but did not actually oppose the entry.

THE LATEST.

Northcote on the Peace Terms

In the House of Commons Sir Stafford Northcote said no intimation had yet been received of the signing of an armistice.—The peace proposals have been communicated by Count Schouvaloff, and are mainly as published. He considers the terms sweeping. The character of the autonomy for Bulgaria was not that agreed upon by the Constantinople conference, as administrative autonomy was then conceded. Now there is provided a total separation from Turkey under a Prince. Regarding the tributaries becoming independent he would say nothing, but it must raise difficult questions since it touched other interests.

The indemnity condition is very elastic. How Russia may elect to take the indemnity and what territory she may ask are highly important to Europe. European concert is therefore necessary. The understanding regarding the Straits may mean something or nothing but it is a European and English interest. He explained that the credit asked for was not connected with the sending of the fleet to the Dardanelles, but is a permanent measure. That England may appear at the Congress that must assemble with proper prestige Sir Stafford said the government asks for the credit as a vote of confidence so it can still firmly enter the Congress.

He pointed out that the Russian proposal for consolidation as an autonomous principality of all the districts inhabited by Bulgarians, would bring the Southern boundary of Bulgaria almost to the sea. He said that a rumor having some appearance of authority, stated that the Prince for Bulgaria was to be chosen by the Czar. Thus a powerful State would be established in the very heart of Turkey with a Prince devoted to Russian interests.

After touching on the other conditions, as before reported, he said, referring to the vagueness of the final condition relating to the Straits, "I call attention to this to point out that the conditions are matters upon which no separate understanding between the belligerents can be acknowledged by the Powers. We have expressed that opinion to the Powers and believe it will receive their assent. Austria has repeatedly declared that she entirely shares our views. We cannot disguise the vast importance of the questions now raised. The Keystone of Southeastern Europe is being removed." Relative to the re-arrangement which must be made he says "one thing is certain, that Turkey must not be urged to continue the struggle for purely European objects."

The Chancellor then explained the negotiations which immediately preceded ordering the fleet to the Dardanelles. He said he had not the slightest doubt that Russia intends to settle the question of the Straits separately with the Porte, not excluding England from ultimate discussion.

He now asked for the vote so that when they went into the council of nations they might be able to show that when England had once decided on a course she was determined not to leave the sword unsharpened. The Ministry would not consider the vote an incentive to war. Sir Stafford Northcote subsequently concurred in a motion for the postponement of the debate until Thursday.

In the House of Lords the resolution of Lord Strathedon that opposition to any occupation of Constantinople would not be a breach of neutrality, was withdrawn, Derby opposing it as of a purely abstract character.

The Independence Belge has the following special from Vienna. Austria like the other Powers considers that the peace conditions require great modification as regards the aggrandizement of Servia and Montenegro and the retro-cession of Bessarabia. Russia's demands in regard to indemnity are deemed inadmissable because of tending to perpetuate the occupation of Bulgaria.

Election of Deputies

PARIS, Jan 28 Nine supplementary elections for Deputies were held yesterday. These included seven to fill vacancies occasioned by the quashing of elections by the Chamber of Deputies on account of official pressure and irregularities at the late general election. The result was seven Republicans, one Conservative and one no choice, necessitating a second ballot.

GREECE

A Disturbed Condition of Affairs

ATHENS Jan 28 Warlike manifestations have commenced here. Sunday crowds of people were parading the streets and stood outside the residence of the Minister. A turbulent mob of two hundred persons were dispersed by the troops after some shots were fired. Three rioters were wounded. The city is now quiet. The Do Bats organ of Minister Deligorgis publishes an article saying that Greece would incur inevitable ruin by declaring war against Turkey now.

LOCAL MATTERS.

Seven deaths occurred in this city last week.

In Piscataquis County about a foot of snow fell in the recent storm.

Next Wednesday evening the Jameson Guards give an exhibition drill and dance in City Hall.

Bangor Division S of T will hold an Antiquarian Supper in Temperance Hall next Thursday evening.

Mr Andrews' promenade concert will take place on the twelfth of next month, instead of the thirteenth.

Owing to the death of a relative Prof John S Sewall's lecture before the Art Association has been postponed.

The passenger cars on the Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad are being varnished preparatory to the spring business.

Gen James Shields will lecture in Norombega Hall Feb 7th, on "Reminiscences of the Field and Senate." Tickets can be obtained at Bugbee's.

Mr Henry B Fay, son of Rev S P Fay, of this city, who recently received an appointment as Secretary of the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs has gone on to Washington.

Some of our citizens say that a man standing on the corner with a lighted cigar in his mouth would do almost as much good as many of our gaslights, as the glass in many of the lamps look as though they had not been touched with any water for several months.

Mrs Staples Sabbath School class, consisting of about thirty young ladies, met with some of their gentleman friends at the residence of their teacher last evening. At about half-past eight all partook of an elegant supper, after which the evening was pleasantly passed in playing games and listening to vocal and instrumental music.

CALAIS Our correspondent H writes "D. Banks McKenzie, the well known temperance reformer, and Superintendent of the Appleton Temporary Home, arrived in St. Stephen, N. B. last Tuesday. Since that time he has held four meetings, and obtained two hundred and twenty-five names on his pledge, and raised sixteen hundred dollars for the purpose of building a hall for the reformed men. He will lecture in this city during the present week."

Yesterday afternoon an old gentleman was riding up the Hampden road sitting on the side of the pung, while the horse was walking and he was engaged in a very animated discussion with the driver. But while he was busily engaged in stating his views a team went past them and the horse made a sudden jump, when the old gentleman turned a somersault and alighted on his head in the middle of the road. He picked himself up and looked around to see if any one was watching him and then got on to the pung again; but by the grip he took on that seat he evidently intended to smash things before he went off a second time.

Capt. Dean of the schooner J. P. Merriman was in the city yesterday, and he speaks in the highest terms of the valuable assistance rendered him by Capt C. H. Grant, keeper of White Head Light, at South Thomaston, also of the keeper of the Life Saving Station, during the recent gale when his vessel was driven ashore at that place.

The St John's Band gave a dance in City Hall last evening and a little after twelve o'clock some one started the cry of fire in the hall. The officers who were in to supper at the time heard the noise and run up stairs into the hall where there was a scene of great confusion. After a few minutes they succeeded in convincing them that there was no fire but in the meantime several ladies had fainted and had to be carried out.

A branch meeting of the Board of Agriculture will be held with the Penobscot Co Farmers' Club in City Hall on Saturday, Feb 9th, at 10 A. M. Question "Is it advisable for the practical agriculturalist of Maine to make a specialty of any one particular crop or to practice mixed husbandry." The discussion will be opened by R W March of Hampden. Farmers and all interested in agriculture are invited to attend with ladies.

The St. John's train did not reach this city until nearly nine o'clock last evening. They waited for the St Stephen's train which was half an hour behind time and on account of the snow they lost time between Vanceboro and this city. When the train left McAdam Junction about seven inches of snow had fallen and it was still snowing very hard. The Bangor & Piscataquis train run down from Oldtown and arrived here on time. The Western train did not wait for the St John train.

Yesterday Marshal Low informed us that for the past few days he has received numerous complaints against the school boys snow balling people as they walked or rode by the school houses, and that he had called at the different schools in the city and notified the boys that they must stop or he should be compelled to arrest them. At about five o'clock we saw him carrying one boy off in his sleigh and warrants have been issued for several more. We would advise the boys to be very careful in the future or they will get themselves in trouble.

CAPT B F BRADBURY formerly twenty five years a resident of this city, died at his home on Pine street yesterday morning after a long and painful illness. Mr Bradbury was a man of clear and decided religious convictions, well informed, of quick perceptions and strong powers of reasoning, thoughtful and devoted to his family and friends. During his sickness he bore the pain and discomfort of his condition with peculiar serenity, and at last with unshaken trust parted with his wife and children and fell on sleep. Funeral services will be held at his late residence, 35 Pine street Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock.

THE GOLD DOLLAR A correspondent writes By the Coinage Act of 1873, the money unit of value in the United States was declared to be the gold dollar which contains 25 8 grains gold 900 fine as authorized by the act of March 3, 1849, under which gold dollar were first authorized to be coined and under the authority of which they were in fact first issued during that year. Neither the weight or fineness of this coin has ever been changed.—The other gold coins of the United States are the quarter eagle which weighs 64½ grains, the three-dollar piece which weighs 77 4 grains, the half eagle which weighs 129 grains the eagle which weighs 258 grains and the double eagle which weighs 516 grains and they are all of same fineness and of proportional weight. This is not true of the silver coins as to weight although they are all of the same fineness, viz 900 The three cent piece* weighs 11 52 grains, the* half dime* 19 2 grains, the dime 38 4 grains, the twenty cent piece 77 1 grains or 5 grams Metric system, the quarter dollar [illegible] grams or [illegible] grains, the half-dollar 192 9 or 12½ grams, the dollar* 412½ grains and the trade dollar 420 grains.* All the gold coins are legal tender in all payments at their face value if of proper weight, and the silver coins are legal tender at their nominal value, for any amount not exceeding five dollars in any one payment.

Golden Wedding of Mr and Mrs Silas Alden

A half century! When considered as a part of the span of a life fifty years, and it often forms the whole or very nearly the whole, is truly a long time to those looking forward, but to him who looks backward, how short! Not often in the course of life can we look about us and see them, who though they be three score years and ten, have come to the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day and the few who do, are not always remembered by their sons and daughters, their neighbors and friends in a more happy manner than were Mr. and Mrs. Silas Alden last evening.

The observation of the "golden" anniversary at the residence of Mr. Alden on French street, last evening was most happily arranged by his children, and was an occasion of thorough enjoyment to the many friends who filled the rooms and congratulated the venerable couple, who were remembered with many choice gifts of affection and friendship. Fifty years ago Mr. Silas Alden was married to Miss Sarah Lindley, daughter of John W. Lindley, of Union, Me, by the Rev. Henry A. True, and at the very pleasant party last evening this couple, venerable with years, yet still hale and with the promise of a happy close to their useful lives, received their friends with that cordiality characteristic of them during their many years in our midst. They were assisted in receiving by their children, Mrs Mary W. Alden, widow of their eldest son, Warren L, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Alden of Cambridge, Mass., Mr. and Mrs Levi L. Alden, S. Augustus, and Edgar Alden, of this city, and Mr and Mrs Frank Lord, of Boston.

The company comprised many of the older citizens who have longest known Mr A, and many of the younger who have come on the stage of action since he located in the city. It was made brilliant by the beauty and elegant dress of the ladies, and throughout was an occasion of enjoyment to all. The day and the evening will be a "golden" one in the memory of the couple themselves and in that of their children whose love makes smooth and pleasant their last years.

OBITUARY

Mr Frederic Lambert who died in New York city the 23d inst, at 74 years, was a former resident of this city, having removed in 1835, from Rowley, Mass his native place, (born June 3d, 1803.) While here he was a lumber and corn and flour merchant. In a few years, after he had commenced business, he was associated with Mr Edward C Burton under the name of Lambert & Burton and subsequently his son was for a time partner the firm being F & F L Lambert.

Mr L was genial and social interested in all that pertained to the welfare of the city. Of the Mercantile Association he was an efficient member and director.

He was connected with the Hammond street church and was for several years one of the Assessors and member of the Standing Committee and manifested his good taste in various improvements about the house and grounds. He was also a member of the Standing Committee of the church, a teacher, manager and in 1840-41 its Superintendent.

In March, 1852 he removed to New York city and pursued a mercantile business, more recently an insurance business. While there he with his wife and two sons were connected with the Madison Square Presbyterian church Dr Adams. His first wife was Mary Ann Jewett of Newburyport, Mass who died Oct 23d 1838. A most estimable Christian lady.

He married Sarah Ann Fanny of Bangor in 1840 who, with two children, survives to mourn the loss of a beloved husband and father.

Mr L attended to business as usual to Saturday, 19th inst, and that night was attacked with pneumonia. The physician said there was no cause for alarm only his age. On the day of his death, 23d his sufferings [illegible] and he laid down quietly and said he felt like going to sleep. Closing his eyes for a natural sleep, he passed away to that sleep which knows no waking and like a shock of corn fully ripe he was gathered home.

FROM BUCKSPORT

The Particulars in Relation to the Brutal Treatment of a Little Girl

Mr Editor:—Seeing in Saturday's Whig a notice of the advent in Bangor of a man who abused a little child in Bucksport I deem it an act of humanity and justice to inform the public concerning the particulars of the case to which the paragraph alluded. About two years ago a photographer named I A Merrill formerly of New Sharon, Me came to Bucksport and rented rooms and opened—as his sign read—an "Art Gallery" on Main street. Having no children of their own he and his wife adopted a little girl who was four years old at the time, she became a member of the family.

A year went by and nobody knew anything about the Morrills save that they were people of decent and respectable report when on Monday (21st) last the whole village was thrown into an uproar by the statement that he and his wife had been using fiendish and brutal punishment to the child they had adopted.

On inquiry it was found that the foster parents had been trying to teach the girl to count. She learned to count as far as six readily but when she came to seven she either could not or would not say it. To compel her to count further the Morrills have, during the past three months resorted to the following means—all of which I think are novel to most trainers of young children.

They have repeatedly put on to the legs arms and body of the child from one to six mustard plasters some of which probably [illegible] until four or five weeks afterwards. They have whipped her until the blood ran down her back in streams. They have pricked the wrists and the backs and palms of the child's hands all over with pins, often drawing blood—he holding the child while his wife inflicted the punishment. On Saturday they [illegible] last again failing to make her count the desired number, they prepared and put on to her limbs and body, eight large mustard plasters, and that their—as he facetiously (?) termed it—"inducements to learn," might not blister the flesh and that the child's torture might be more exquisite, they mixed the white of eggs with the mustard before it was applied.

Although the above statement seems too horrible to be true, it is not fiction. Morrill himself told me the facts here detailed besides other disgusting particulars.

When the facts became known in the village, it was with difficulty that the town authorities restrained the crowd from lynching the perpetrators of the deed on the spot. The selectmen have taken charge of the child who, though quite feeble, is doing as well as can be expected.

The Morrills thinking discretion the better part of valor, have packed up and left town as was noticed in your Saturday's paper. E.

FROM DEXTER

The Eastern Express Robbery Case

At the Town Hall in Dexter, the court came in at two o'clock to hear the defence in the Annett case, Jasper Hutchings, Esq., County Attorney, for the prosecution. J Crosby, Esq., opened for the defence and argued for about half an hour to show the improbability of Annett's guilt and also that he should be able to show his whereabouts for the entire night of the burglary.

Charles Crockett of Dexter, testified that he assisted Annett to carry a large oyster can from the Sovereigns' store to Express office, about seven o'clock in the evening, previous to the robbery.

Nowell H. Bates of Dexter, testified that he remembered the evening previous to the robbery, and that Annett was in the Sovereigns' store several times that evening.

Edward C. Sturtevant of Dexter, testified that he remembered the evening previous to the robbery, and that he recollected seeing Annett at the store and of his carrying the oyster can from the store.

Rev. A. Battles of Bangor, affirmed that he was at the Universalist vestry the evening previous to the robbery, had supper at that place and afterwards crossed the street to the Sovereigns' store and there saw Annett. That was about eight o'clock. Afterwards went back to the church and again saw Annett, either in the church or near there. Then went home to Mrs. McClellan's, that would be about 8½ or 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Ann Thayer of Dexter, testified that for a year past she has lived in part of the same house with Annett, that she can readily hear from her part of the house when anyone comes in or goes out of Mr Annett's part, that she distinctly remembers the night previous to the robbery and that Annett came in that evening earlier than usual, think it could not have been nine o'clock when he came in, that she retired a little past nine, and very soon heard Annett retire, that she is in the habit of reading after she retires to produce sleepiness, as she is very much troubled about sleeping, that she did not sleep any until 12 o'clock and frequently heard Annett cough during that time, was awake early Tuesday morning, heard Annett around the house and go down into the cellar, heard Mrs Annett call and tell him that the bell had rung that was the 6 20 bell in the morning. Annett went down to his workshop and returned at or about a quarter before seven.

We shall present further particulars in relation to the case in Wednesday's issue.

A GENTLE HINT

In our style of climate with its sudden changes of temperature—rain wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day—it is no wonder that our children friends and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Boschee's German Syrup kept about your home for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill and perhaps death by the use of three or four doses. For curing Consumption, Hemorrhages, Pneumonia, Severe Coughs, Croup or any disease of the Throat or Lungs its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist will tell you. German Syrup is now sold in every town and village on this continent. Sample bottles for trial 10c; regular size 75c. [illegible]

YOU MUST CURE THAT COUGH

With Shiloh's Consumption Cure you can cure yourself. It has established the fact that Consumption can be cured, while for Coughs, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Asthma, and all diseases of Throat and Lungs it is absolutely without an equal. Two doses will relieve your child of Croup. It is pleasant to take and perfectly harmless to the youngest child, and no mother can afford to be without it. You can use two thirds of a bottle and if it what we say is not true we will refund the price paid. Price 10 cts, 50 cts and $1 00 per bottle. If your Lungs are sore or chest or back lame use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by N S Harlow and H H Butler, Bangor.

Have you Dyspepsia, are you Constipated, have you a Yellow skin, loss of Appetite, Head Ache, if so don't fail to use SHILOH'S SYSTEM VITALIZER. It is guaranteed to relieve you, and will you continue to suffer when you can be cured on such terms as these. Price 10 cts and 75cts. Sold by N S Harlow and H H Butler, Bangor.

IT IS QUITE A MISTAKE to think that Bright's Disease, Kidney, Bladder and Glandular Affections, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy and Urinary Complaints, cannot be cured. HUNT'S REMEDY thoroughly cures these Diseases. All Diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary Organs are cured by HUNT'S REMEDY.

The age of miracles has passed, yet the cures made by Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry are more miraculous than anything that has existed in modern times. It cures Coughs, Colds, Asthma and Consumption. Price 50 and $1.00.

DONT BE DECEIVED

Many persons say "I haven't got the Consumption" when asked to cure their Cough with Shiloh's Consumption Cure. Do they not know that Coughs lead to Consumption and a remedy that will cure Consumption will certainly and surely cure a cough or any lung or throat trouble. We know it will cure when all others fail, and our faith in it is so positive that we will refund the price paid if you receive no benefit. Is not this a fair proposition. Price 10 cts, 50 cts, and $1 00 per bottle. For lame Chest, Back or Side use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cts. For sale by H H Butler and N. S. Harlow.

TO CONSUMPTIVES. Wilbor's Cod Liver Oil and Lime has now been before the public for ten years, and has steadily grown into favor and appreciation. This could not be the case unless the preparation was of high intrinsic value. The combination of the Phosphate of Lime with pure Cod Liver Oil, as prepared by Dr Wilbor has produced a new phase in the treatment of Consumption and all Diseases of the Lungs. This article can be taken by the most delicate invalid without creating the disgusting nausea which is such a prominent objection to the Cod Liver Oil when taken without Lime. It is prescribed by the regular faculty. Sold by the proprietor, A B WILBOR, Chemist, Boston and by druggists generally. eod

"I OWE NO MAN A DOLLAR."

Oh, do not envy, my own dear wife,
The wealth of our next door neighbor,
But bid me still to be stout of heart,
And cheerfully follow my labor.
You must know, the last of those little debts
That have been our lingering sorrow,
Is paid this night! So we'll both go forth
And shake hands with the world to-morrow.
Oh, the debtor is but a shame-faced dog,
With the creditor's name on his collar;
While I am a king and you are a queen,
For we owe no man a dollar.

Our neighbor you saw in his coach to-day,
With his wife and his flaunting daughter,
While we sat down at our cowless board,
To a crust and a cup of water.
I saw that a tear-drop stood in your eye,
Though you tried your best to conceal it,
I knew that the contrast reached your heart,
And you could not help but feel it.
But, knowing now that our scanty fare
Has freed my neck from the collar,
You'll join my laugh, and help me shout
That I owe no man a dollar.

This neighbor whose show has dazzled your eyes,
In fact is a wretched debtor;
I pity him oft from my very heart,
And I wish his lot were better.
Why, the man is the veriest slave alive,
For his dashing wife and daughter
Will live in style, though ruin should come—
So he goes like a lamb to the slaughter
But he feels it the tighter every day,
That terrible debtor's collar!
Oh, what would he give, could he say with us,
That he owed no man a dollar!

You seem amazed, but I'll tell you more—
Within two hours I met him,
Sneaking away with a frightened air,
As if a fiend had beset him,
Yet he fled from a very worthy man,
Whom I met with the greatest pleasure—
Whom I called by name and forced to stop,
Though he said he was not at leisure
He held my last note! so I held him fast
Till he freed my neck from the collar,
Then I shook his hand as I proudly said,
"Now I owe no man a dollar!"

Ah! now you smile, for you feel the force
Of the truths I've been repeating,
I know that a downright honest heart
In that gentle breast was beating
To-morrow I'll rise with a giant's strength
To follow my daily labor,
But ere we sleep let us humbly pray
For our wretched next-door neighbor
And we'll pray for the time when all shall be free
From the weight of the debtor's collar—
When the poorest will lift his voice and cry,
"Now I owe no man a dollar!"

THE LONDON DUST-MAN.

There he goes! A dusty gloom hangs over the roofs of great London city; a similar gloom fills my room and seems to have touched all the furniture with smoky age, and as I look down from the window into the gloomy street, I see him coming along slowly, and crying in a voice like a plea for help in affliction, "Dust-oh!—dust-oh!—dust-oh!—dust-oh!"

When the London fog is gray we cannot see him very far off, for he, too, is gray from head to foot with ash-dust, and as he approaches as he comes out of the mist like a phantom, though in reality he is a substantial, square-built, deep-chested fellow, shod with enormous Blucher shoes (the soles of which are bright with nails), and clad in a loose blouse, and trousers that are tied up about the knees. The blouse is open at the chest, and is lifted to the waist by his big, brown hands, which are tucked in his trouser pockets, and his head is covered by the kind of hat that sailors call sou'wester. His only ornament is a pair of ear-rings, and with his head thrown back he saunters along the street by the side of his cart, repeating in measured tone his cry, "Dust-oh-oh! dust-oh!"

Now and then he stops at a house, and his mate—he has a mate who is as much like him as pea is like pea—descends into the cellar, bringing forth the ashes and refuse that have accumulated in twenty-four hours, and when the cart, which is a square, box-like affair, is filled he starts for home with his load

What a queer home it is! It is on the out-skirts of the city, far away from the finer streets and buildings. A large space of ground is as gray and dusty as an African or western desert, and is broken by mounds of ashes, some of which are only a few feet high, while others are almost as high as houses,—quite as high, in fact, as the dismal little shanties on the edge of the reservation in which the dust-man and his fellows live. Other carts and other dust-men are constantly coming and going, dumping one load and then returning to the city for another, and as soon as a load is dumped it is attacked by a crowd of men, women and children, who, with shovels, rakes and hooks, turn it over and over, and raise stifling clouds of dust.

The reader may think that the collections made by the dust-man are valueless, but such is not the case.

There are more than 300,000 inhabited houses in London, consuming more than 3,500,000 tons of coal a year, and besides the ashes from this great quantity of fuel, the dust-man gathers the other refuse of the houses. He is employed by a contractor, who agrees with the corporation to remove the ashes, etc., out of the city, and the contractor divides every load into six parts as follows. Soil, or fine dust, which is sold to brick-makers for making bricks and to farmers for manure, brieze, or cinders, sold to brick-makers for burning brick; rags, bones and old metals, sold to marine-store dealers; old tin and iron vessels, sold to trunk-makers for clamps; bricks, oyster and other shells, sold for foundation and road-building; and old boots and shoes, sold to the manufacturers of Prussian-blue.

Sometimes much more valuable things than these are found, and the reader may remember the romance that Charles Dickens made out of a London dust-man—"Our Mutual Friend."

It is in sifting the different parts of a load that the men, women and children are employed; they are as busy as ants, mere babies and wrinkled old dames take a part in the labor, and all of them are so covered with dust and ashes that they are anything but pleasant to contemplate, though, as a rule, they are useful, honest and industrious members of society.

"Dustie" is what the Londoners familiarly call the dust-man, and only a few know in what ignorance and poverty he lives. One would think that he would work himself into a better occupation, but his family have been dust-men for generations, and the generations after him are not likely to change.—St. Nicholas for February.

KEY TO SUCCESS.—A few years ago, says a New York paper, a large drug firm in this city advertised for a boy. The next day the store was thronged with applicants, and among them a queer looking fellow, accompanied by his aunt, in lieu of faithless parents by which he had been abandoned

Looking at this little waif, the merchant in the store promptly said. "Can't take him, places, all full. Besides, he's too small."

"I know he's small," said the woman, "but he is willing and faithful"

There was a twinkle in the boy's eyes which made the merchant think again. A partner in the firm volunteered the remark that he did not see what they wanted of such a boy; he wasn't bigger than a pint of cider. But after consultation the boy was set to work.

A few days later a call was made on boys in the store for some one to stay all night. The prompt response of the little fellow contrasted well with the reluctance of the others. In the middle of the night the merchant looked in to see if all was right in the store, and presently discovered his youthful protege busy scissoring labels. "I did not tell you to work at night." "I know you did not tell me so; but I thought I might as well be doing something."

In the morning the cashier got orders to double that boy's wages "for he was willing." Only a few weeks elapsed before a show of wild beasts passed through the streets, and very naturally, all hands in the store rushed to witness the spectacle. A thief saw his opportunity, and entered in the rear door to seize something, but in a twinkle found himself clutched by the diminutive clerk aforesaid, and after a severe struggle captured. Not only was robbery prevented, but valuable articles stolen from other stores were recovered. When asked by the merchant why he staid behind to watch when all the others quit their work, the reply was. "You told me never to leave the store, when others were absent, and I thought I'd stay."

"Double that boy's wages; he is willing and faithful." In 1870 that boy was receiving a salary of twenty-five hundred dollars, and in 1830 had become partner in the establishment.

The moral of the story is "where there's a will there's a way." The key to success is "willing and faithful." There is a vacant place for all such boys as the hero of this tale.

A prominent public office in Nashville has this notice posted up: "Don't open this door," under which some wag wrote the query, "Why?" and another responded, "Because you can't; it's locked."

LAMPS.

BY MRS. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

In the long chapter of accidents and horror with which newspapers seem in duty bound to enliven their readers almost daily, we do not recall one instance of any trouble from the use of kerosene or the bursting of a lamp that was not unmistakably the result of carelessness, neglect or ignorance. Nothing can be simpler than cleaning, filling or trimming a lamp; yet unless the eye of the mistress is on the work from beginning to end, or she takes entire charge of the work herself, how much discomfort is experienced by those who depend on lamps for lighting their homes!

If the wick is adapted to the tube through which it passes, being neither too wide nor too narrow, there should be no trouble in turning it up or down. But if too wide, it will catch in the tube, and draw up unevenly, and crack the chimney, or be hopelessly snarled and entangled. If it is too narrow, it gives very little light, and that will burn in jets and puffs, and sometimes, by a sudden draft or opening of a door, the flame will be drawn into the lamp and a bad accident be the result.

Many chimneys are broken by carelessness in trimming the wick. It is strange that any one should find difficulty in cutting a wick perfectly true, making it exactly even with the tube. The slightest inequality, the slenderest thread of the wick, or a mote, will make the light unsteady, cause the lamp to smoke or break the chimney. Having once tried the experiment of slighting such work, and seeing effects, should be, one would imagine, quite sufficient to teach a more careful habit. But not one servant in fifty will trim half-a-dozen lamps in the morning so that they will all perform their work satisfactorily. The wick is trimmed unevenly, perhaps, and therefore smokes, and must be extinguished and re-trimmed, often to the inconvenience and discomfort of some persons who must wait till the work is done properly. One lamp is overlooked and the wick is covered with a ragged crust from the last evening's use, and if lighted in that untidy state will burn in uneven jets, smoke and break the chimney.

One such mistake, and the mortification of rectifying it before company instead of having it well done at the proper time and place, ought to fix the lesson in the mind and prevent a repetition. Yet how many housekeepers are wearied with the daily effort to teach this very simple lesson!

It is better never to cut the burnt part of the wick entirely away, but only to remove the crust, taking care that it is perfectly even with the tube. This is easily done by turning the wick down so low that only this crust appears above the tube, and then carefully clipping or scraping off all the hard or uneven crust, leaving the rest of the wick untouched, or only so far as is needed to make it exactly even with the tube.

The woven wicks commonly used are being superseded by a red felt wick. The color is not particularly desirable; but the light from these wicks is much clearer; it does not become coated with any sediment that may settle from the kerosene, and does not catch and tangle on the screw; but we don't suppose the color has any virtue.

Another mistake is in filling the lamp too full. The oil should never come within one inch of the neck of the lamp when the top is screwed in, else it is drawn up as by a syphon, till it overflows and covers the outside, greasing every spot where it is placed, soiling the hands, endangering the clothes, and filling the room with the smell of kerosene.

Chimneys and shades must be kept perfectly bright and clear if one expects to have a good light. Wash in hot, clean suds, to remove all grease, rinse in hot water, wipe dry with a clean linen cloth or towel kept exclusively for the lamps, and polish with chamois skin. They need washing two or three times a week, and the brass top of the lamp also, to keep it free from any burnt wick or insects that drop over on to it and lodge there. If these are not removed as fast as they collect, the circulation of air is obstructed and a disagreeable, oily smell makes the room unpleasant.

Lent begins March 6th, and ends April 20th

Washington's Birthday falls on Friday this year.

For him who does everything in its proper time, one day is worth three.

Any man who can catch fish and not lie about it, is just about as pious as men ever get in this world.

A very precise person, remarking upon Shakespeare's lines, "The good that men do is often interred with their bones," carefully observed that this interment can generally take place without crowding the bones.

To the Honorable Judge of Probate in the County of Penobscot:

The undersigned, administrator of the estate of Oliver P. Pond, late of Eddington, in said County, deceased, respectfully represents that the goods and chattels, rights and credits of said deceased are not sufficient to pay his just debts and charges of administration by the sum of three hundred dollars.

Wherefore your petitioner prays your Honor to grant him power to sell by license at public or private sale, and convey the whole of the following described real estate of the deceased, (including the reversion of the widow's dower therein), as the residue would be greatly depreciated by a sale of any portion, viz: All the real estate of which the deceased died seized, situate in Dedham, in the County of Hancock, including the lot containing 43 acres, more or less, situate near the southerly end of Hatcase Pond, and adjoining land now or formerly of D. H. Stockwell on one side, and of Edward Gray on the other, to satisfy said debts, expenses of sale, and charges of administration.

DIPHTHERIA!

DIPHTHERIA!

DIPHTHERIA!

DIPHTHERIA!

A WARNING

This alarming and now almost always fatal disease seems to be increasing, rather than abating throughout this state, and the number of deaths in the aggregate so far this winter is simply appalling, some villages having lost more than one hundred children, and many families have been bereft of every one. Shall this terrible sacrifice continue, or will the people of this State have regard to reason and facts, and cast aside their prejudice, and secure a simple but effectual remedy?

JOHNSON'S

ANODYNE

LINIMENT

IS SUCH A REMEDY,

And is within the reach of all.

IT WILL CURE THE WORST CASES

Nine Times out of Ten.

We can prove this to the satisfaction of any one by letters now on file in our office. We will present one case in point A young married lady in Boston was suffering from this disease, Diphtheria, and was not expected to live but a few moments,—the husband, father and mother of the unfortunate were by the bed side, as was also the attending physician. So certain were they of the near approach of death, that the bed-clothes had been arranged for the sad event. The father and mother were State of Maine people, and had known from childhood of the wonderful curative powers of JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT. In the early morning the father had been out to the nearest drug store, and obtained a bottle, and when the physician arrived and stated that the wife and daughter could not live but a short time, the mother timidly told the doctor that she had great faith in JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT, and asked if she might give her daughter some. The doctor replied, "Certainly, if you wish, it will do neither harm nor good." While this conversation was taking place the poor lady was gasping for breath, and it was evident that she could live but a few moments longer. But the mother quickly uncorked the bottle and gave a teaspoonful clear to her child, the effect was like magic; in an instant she could breathe a little easier,—the mother immediately commenced to bathe the throat externally, and in a short time all present saw that the crisis was passed. In a few hours she was considered out of danger, and in a few days was well. The husband of this lady related these facts to Mr. Jennings of our firm, a few days ago, in Boston. He said that JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT saved the life of his wife, without the shadow of a doubt. Why should not every family in this State supply themselves with this priceless remedy at once, and so be prepared for emergencies?

What is the trifling cost of a bottle, or a half dozen of this Anodyne, compared with the worth of a human life? Lose not a moment, but let every family be supplied. If any are too poor to pay, send to us and state the facts, and we will furnish it for nothing.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE.

Bathe the throat with quite warm water, wipe dry, saturate a red flannel with the Liniment, and bind round the neck several thicknesses with a white cotton cloth outside. Give a teaspoonful internally; repeat twice a day till cured.

LETTER CARRIERS.

All letters are delivered free by carriers when addressed to street and number. People should inform their correspondents of above and have their letters addressed accordingly.

Persons leaving their address at the General Delivery can also have their letters sent, but it is much more convenient to have the street and number on, and they will be delivered earlier than if the same is put on at the office. Carriers make two deliveries daily, the first trip supplying the extremes of their routes.

Collections are made morning and evening in season for important mails—the down town boxes fifteen and the up town boxes thirty minutes before closing mails at the office.

Holidays the Carrier's Window will be open for the delivery of letters from 8½ to 9½ A. M., and from 7½ to 8 P. M. Sundays from 8½ to 9½ A. M.

Any irregularities in the Carriers' department should be reported to the office

ENVELOPES.

No additional charge will be made for printing the name and request to return, across the left hand upper corner of the envelopes furnished by the Post Office Department, (samples of which may be seen at the Cashier's window,) when ordered in lots of not less than 500

A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within thirty days, or less, written or printed, with the writer's name, post office and State, across the left end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with

☞ The public are earnestly recommended to procure stamped envelopes with printed return request, as the expense is less, and letters thus endorsed, if not delivered to the person addressed, are returned to the writer free of charge.

First class envelopes of above furnished at $22 50 per thousand cannot be used to prepay postage. The use of such Stamps is punishable by a fine of fifty dollars.

Stamps cut from Stamped Envelopes

Stamped Envelopes, spoiled in directing, are redeemed at this office

DOMESTIC POSTAGE.

FIRST CLASS.

All Letters must be Prepaid.—Letters for the Mails in the United States, three cents the half ounce or single rate. City letters, two cents half ounce or single rate.

SECOND CLASS.

Newspapers.

All regular newspapers must be prepaid at the office of publication, at the rate of two cents per pound for each issue on weekly papers or those published oftener than once a week, less frequently than once a week, three cents. The same law applies to dealers.
